Superior Trail 50 Km

Runners were treated to an overcast morning, with mild temperatures and a high dew point at the third annual Superior Trail 50 Km. Heavy rains during the week leading up to the race left the trail with an abundance of extremely muddy stretches, adding to the usual challenge of the unrelenting steep climbs and descents. The rain that was forecast for race day mercifully held off until the seventh hour of the race, when the majority of the runners were either already enjoying the post-race feast, or were at least between the last aid station and the finish line.

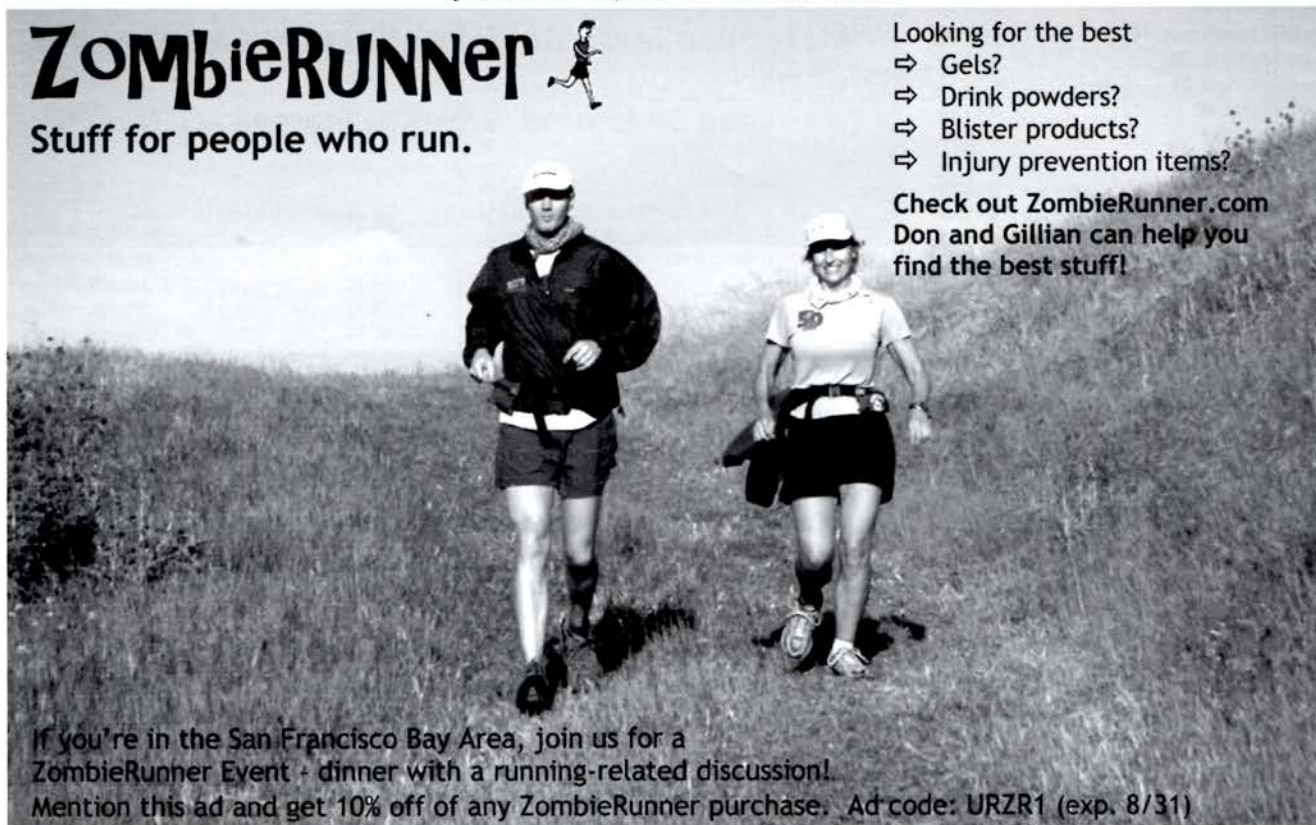

The men were led virtually from the start by P.J. Potvin, who had come from Michigan to run the race for the first time. He looked comfortable and strong at all times on the out-and-back course, and the group of course veterans who pursued him were unable to close the gap. Meanwhile, the women were led by Deb Bennett for most of the race, with Kim Holak hot on her heels. Kim caught and passed Deb beyond the final aid station, and they finished barely two minutes apart, sixth and eighth overall out of 51 total finishers.

Race Directors Rick and Linda Lindquist did another terrific job with the 50-km, along with a 25-km, held simultaneously. The Lindquists have passed the torch for the September 50 Mile and Marathon to new director Larry Pederson, who invites everyone to return to Lutsen on Saturday, September 10 for another fun day along Lake Superior's north shore. The Spring and Fall races are held on the rugged Superior Hiking Trail in Northeastern Minnesota. They are run on single-track trails, and traversing the front range of the Sawtooth Mountains, through the Superior National Forest. The trail encompasses some of the most beautiful scenery in northern Minnesota.
